WORKMAN IS ELECTROCUTED AT SHOE SHOP

Hanover Man Dies When He Contacts With Power Line.

440 VOLTS CAUSE INSTANT DEATH

Coming in contact with a power line carrying 440 volts while repairing a broken wire in the motor room of the elevator shaft at the Newark shoe company's storage plant in Littlestown, Wednesday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock, Claude G. Bechtel, 32-year-old electrician, of Hanover, was instantly killed.

Bechtel had gone to the motor room to test a fuse and had discovered a broken wire. George Collins, Littlestown, a foreman at the shoe factory, heard Bechtel cry out, "That pretty near killed me."

Finds Him On Floor
In another second, Collins heard a thump, and falling to get a reply when he called to Bechtel, the former ran to the motor room and found the electrician on the floor.

Dr. Donald C. Coper, Littlestown, was summoned and pronounced Bechtel dead. Dr. Edgar A. Miller, Adams county coroner, was notified and permitted the body to be removed to a Hanover undertaking establishment.

World War Veteran
Bechtel, a veteran of the world war, had been employed as electrician at the shoe factory since its opening a number of years ago. During the war, he was a first class private in Co. A, 7th machine gun battalion, 3rd division.

Bechtel was a son of Henry and Mary (Brumgard) Bechtel, Penn township, both of whom survive. Other survivors are: the widow, who before marriage was Mildred Wildasin; one son, Nevin, and the following brothers and sisters: Curvin H., Littlestown; Mrs. Cleveland Barnhart, Carroll county, Maryland; Mrs. Curvin Scholl, Parkville; Mrs. David Hykes, Hampton; Mrs. Paul Wentz, and Mrs. John Barnhart, both of West Manheim township; Fred L. Bechtel, Hanover, and Lesley M. Bechtel, West Manheim township.

Funeral services Saturday at 1:30 p. m. from the house with further services at Christ church, near Littlestown, the Rev. H. H. Hartman, pastor of Christ church, officiating. Interment in the cemetery adjoining Christ church.

Begin Planting of Burned Areas in Nearby Forests

With the spring fire season closed and time for tree planting passed, other forest activities are now receiving the special attention of the state's foresters, according to an announcement today by Joseph S. Illick, deputy secretary of the Pennsylvania department of forests and waters, in Harrisburg.

The department's road building program is in full swing, favored by ideal weather for construction and the enlarged and improved system of state forest roads will be in a better condition than ever to receive the influx of visitors to the state forests.

These forests, the property of the people of Pennsylvania, and now embracing about 1,500,000 acres, were enjoyed by 1,500,000 persons last year. Public use of the state-owned forests has been growing annually and has practically doubled in the last five years.

The auditorium was filled for the exercises.

State Democrats Urge Repeal of Prohibition In Adopting Platform

Roy Funkhouser On Platform Committee Of State Organization Which Drafts Plank Advocating Repeal Of Dry Laws At Harrisburg On Wednesday.

With Roy P. Funkhouser, Gettysburg, on the platform-drafting committee, the Democratic state committee tied a wet tag to its ticket of state candidates for the November general election at a meeting in Harrisburg, Wednesday afternoon. The platform calls for "removal of the federal constitution, repeal of the Volstead act, and immediate repeal of the state enforcement act known as the Snyder-Armstrong act."

The action was a studied effort, the choice of the leaders of the wet wing of the party who have been in control of the party organization for the last two years. Offered as a substitute a resolution pledging the party to support of prohibition, the platform committee unanimously rejected the dry plank for the demand for repeal.

John M. Hemphill, candidate for governor; Sedgwick Kistler, Lock Haven, candidate for senator, and other nominees for state office, heartily endorsed the platform, including the declaration for repeal.

Dry Plank Submitted

The dry plank was submitted by C. Burgess Taylor, Philadelphia lawyer, who is a member of the advisory committee named by State Chairman John R. Collins some months ago, but not a member of the state committee. His resolution asserted that the eighteenth amendment and supporting legislation finds "its justification in the economic and industrial necessities of a complicated social order" and that the committee "oppose repeal of our state enforcement law so long as the eighteenth amendment is a part of the federal constitution."

Despite the fact that the platform had been prepared in advance through the formula of drafting a pronouncement of its own, by withdrawing to a committee room during a recess of more than an hour, Taylor was heard during that period.

The entire platform was adopted unanimously and without a record vote. There was no separate vote upon the wet plank.

Many Are Not There

As a result, the opposition to the wet declaration which had been expected from the dry wing of the party did not materialize on the floor of the convention. Many of the dry members, in fact, remained (Continued on Second Page)

Nearly 700 delegates will be awarded in the sixty-ninth annual commencement at State college on June 10. Of these regents 620 will be given to seniors, the estimates recently prepared for President Ralph D. Hetzel stated, 66 being masters' degrees, nine technical degrees and two doctor's degrees.

Investigate "Grave" In Pigeon Hills

Ghosts Active, Country Folk Tell York County Authorities.

Spooks are again abroad in the Pigeon Hills and reports of spells and incantations make the residents of that section of York county shudder with dread and consternation.

The attention of District Attorney Ralph Fisher, of York, has been called by Frank Hoke, Menges Mills, to the finding of what appears to be a new-made grave in the woods near the home of Bert Hoover, residing near Gnatstown, about two miles north of Menges Mills.

Hoover is reported to have found the "grave" close to his farm. On a tree nearby is carved the word "Beware" with the rude depiction of a skull and crossbones. The grave was found several days ago and reported to District Attorney Fisher Tuesday. Mr. Fisher has promised an investigation.

REJECT UNION OF SYNODS AT PHILADELPHIA

Partition Of Synod In Support Of Colleges Is Reason.

HEAR REPORT ON GRACE COLLEGE

The proposed plan for the merger of the six Lutheran synods in Pennsylvania was rejected as undesirable by the Ministerium of Pennsylvania, the largest of the bodies involved in the proposal, at the annual convention sessions held in Zion Lutheran church, Philadelphia, Wednesday.

At the same time, however, the convention adopted the recommendations of its own intersynodical committee headed by the Rev. A. C. R. Keiter, that a "better understanding now prevails among the three synods in Eastern Pennsylvania than at any time since the discussion of intersynodical problems began." Despite the present disagreements, therefore, the committee was continued in the hope of reaching a solution within the near future.

Adopt Report

The report of the committee on review of the intersynodical report was adopted without discussion or debate. It is understood that the difficulty concerns the support of the educational institutions. Under the four-synod plan supported by the other five synods in the state, each of the new synods would be responsible for the support of one of the colleges now existing.

Muhlenberg college at Allentown would become the institution of the synod in the eastern section of the state. At the last meeting of the synodical representatives before the present convention held at Harrisburg, March 20, this four-synod plan, which would probably have been adopted, was amended so as to cut off the Pottsville conference of the ministerium from support of Muhlenberg college and under the new alignment, giving it to Susquehanna university at Selinsgrove. It is this feature which brought about the rejection of the plan.

Consider Campaign

Other major items of business which came before the convention Wednesday were the consideration of the report of the theological seminary at Mount Airy and the pledging of support in the building fund campaign to be initiated in July, 1931; the acceptance of the report (Continued on Second Page)

BEACHEM PUTS NEW LIFE IN ALUMNI EVENT

Year As Secretary Is Successful In Creating New Spirit.

FORMER STUDENTS RETURN IN BODY

Growing interest among alumni in commencement activities at Gettysburg college this year is attributed to the efforts of Charles W. Beachem, who is rounding out his first year in the newly-created position of alumni secretary.

An unusually large number of graduates of the battlefield school are expected to return for the various events on the commencement program, beginning at 6 o'clock this evening with fraternity entertainments and concluding Monday morning at 10 o'clock with commencement exercises in the Majestic theatre.

Plans have been made to accommodate 500 alumni at the annual alumni collation in the Eddie Plank memorial gymnasium at noon, Saturday, and indications are that this number may be exceeded. The largest previous attendance at an alumni collation has been 350.

Although he was inexperienced in the duties of an alumni secretary, Mr. Beachem immediately took hold of the situation at college a year ago, and began the task of arousing interest among alumni in their alma mater. During the year, five alumni clubs were organized under the secretary's direction. They are Lancaster, York, Altoona, Cleveland and Harrisburg, all of them now thriving and flourishing.

Alumni groups in other cities, which had held meetings irregularly, were given new life and inspired to greater efforts by the interest and efforts of Mr. Beachem, who visited all of the clubs and instilled in the membership some of his own enthusiasm and loyalty to the college.

Started "Alumnus"

In order to keep the affairs of the college before the alumni and their families, Mr. Beachem sponsored a publication, "The Gettysburg Alumnus", which was sent out among the 3,450 alumni of the college three times during the school year just closing.

Through this means, alumni were able to keep in closer touch with the scholastic and athletic activities of the college. Many alumni commented favorably upon "The Alumnus", declaring it to be a welcome visitor from the college.

The task of compiling the correct names and addresses of the alumni of the college was not one of Mr. Beachem's smallest tasks, but it has well repaid the efforts expected to bring the list up-to-date. In past years, as high as three to five hundred invitations to commencements were returned because of incorrect addresses of the alumni. So far this year only a few more than fifty invitations have been sent back.

Saturday "Big Day"

Saturday will be the "big day" for the alumni this year. At 10 o'clock, they will witness the Gettysburg-Dickinson baseball game on Nixon field, followed at noon by the collation at which Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of the school, will be the principal speaker.

At the collation, which will be served by the Mite society of St. James' Lutheran church, all alumni who have been out of school more than fifty years will be introduced. Among the older alumni who expect to attend the collation are Dr. Henry Eyster Jacobs, Philadelphia, a member of the class of 1862, one of the oldest living alumni of the college; the Rev. Dr. J. Milton Reimensnyder, Milton, only surviving member of the class of 1870, and the Rev. Dr. James McConaughy, Philadelphia, class of 1875.

Class reunions this year are expected to be exceptionally well attended. The class of 1880 will hold a dinner at the Hotel Gettysburg, Friday evening. The class of 1890 will meet at the home of Miss Edwards, Carlisle street, Saturday, for a reunion dinner; the class of 1909 will dine at the Blue Parrot tea room; the class of 1905, at Sauble's inn, Taneytown; the classes of 1910 (Continued on Second Page) on Grace college for women at Washington, D. C., and the election of delegates to the United Lutheran church convention in Milwaukee in October. Reports of the elections were not completed at the time of adjournment.

The election of Miss Jessie Truman as dean of Grace college was also formally announced by Dr. F. M. Ulrich, chairman of the committee of the college. Dean Truman, in addressing the convention, stressed the need for additional institutions for the education of women today. A survey among leading women's colleges, she said, had shown that the list of applicants for the incoming classes exceeds in number the entire enrolled student body.

Take Up Pensions No further advances in pension payments can be made unless the subscriptions to the $40,000 pension fund are received in full. Harry Hodges, secretary of the board of pensions and relief, told the convention at the opening of the afternoon session. The majority of the ministers, who are themselves or whose dependents are now receiving aid from the board, never received a salary of $1,000 during their active lifetime, Mr. Hodges declared. The $600 a year maximum now provided in the new plan, he admitted, was wholly inadequate as complete aid. Because of the accumulating deficit of the theological seminary at Mount Airy, the Rev. F. S. Esterley, of Hazleton, asked for an explanation, declaring that he wished only to quiet widespread rumors among the clergy. Dr. C. M. Jacobs, president of the institution, answered that this deficit of $82,000 had been reduced by private subscription to $25,000.

Graf Ends Flight Across Atlantic Seville, June 5 (AP).—The Graf Zeppelin, completing the first stage of her return to Friedrichshafen, landed at the airbase here at 5 p. m. (12 p. m. E. S. T.). The Graf, after fighting unfavorable weather off the European coast, expected to make this city early this morning but heavy rains forced her to divert from a straight course from the Azores, so she made her hand fall just south of Lisbon, Portugal.

The Graf flew over the city of Seville to an accompaniment of cheers of the inhabitants, who saw her last on May 20 when she left for Brazil and United States. The flight from Lakehurst to Seville took 59 hours.

Although it had been raining earlier in the day, the skies cleared rapidly and the sun was shining when the Graf landed.

BULLETS PLAY HERE SATURDAY

Meet Dickinson on Nixon Field In The Morning And In Carlisle At 2:30 P. M.

With twelve victories tucked safely away and four defeats chalked up against them, Ira Plank's Orange and Blue Bullets face a two-game series Saturday with Dickinson, to close their 1930 campaign.

At ten o'clock Saturday morning the Bullets clash with their ancient rivals on Nixon field and at 2:30 o'clock the Gettysburgians journey to Carlisle to play the second game of the series on Biddle field.

Eddie Utz will likely draw the hurling assignment for the morning contest here, unless Coach Plank suddenly shifts his plans. Haas is booked to do the hurling in the afternoon contest.

Hope For Victory If the Bullets come through with victories in both contests they will bring their victories to fourteen for the season, an enviable record for any college club.

The slump of the Bullets was costly. Moving into Allentown with eleven consecutive victories dangling from their belts, they fell into the pits of a slump and dropped their first contest of the year. This was followed with defeats by Temple here, and Villanova and Temple away. The next game the Bullets had a tough time trimming Lebanon Valley on Nixon field.

They have had a long rest since their Lebanon Valley clash and are in fine fettle for the battles with their time-honored rivals from Carlisle.

Utz and Haas are in rare form and should come through with victories if their mates uphold their customary standard at the plate.

ARREST SEVENTH IN GEM RING

Had Jewels Reported Stolen Thursday In Philadelphia.

New York, June 5 (AP).—A seventh prisoner and $15,000 in jewels were seized Wednesday in the police round-up of a nation-wide gem theft ring. The round-up already had yielded five men and one woman and an estimated $800,000 in gems.

The latest arrest was that of Max Nadel, 55, who has a long criminal record as a thief and pickpocket. In his pockets police said they found a three and a half carat diamond after they arrested him. But they said he offered objection to their taking from his safe deposit box the remainder of the $15,000 worth of jewelry seized. Several pieces in the box were alleged to have been stolen on Tuesday from the home of Harry Reger, in Alden Park Manor, Philadelphia.

MAROONS LOSE FINAL CONTEST

Reading Victor, 3 To 2. After Locals Lead Until Eighth.

Failure to come through in the pinches sent Gettysburg high school down to defeat in the last game of the season at Reading on Wednesday, the Red and Black nine nosing out the Maroons, 3-2.

Reading staged a two run rally in the eighth to cop the verdict after the locals held a 2-1 advantage. The victors outdrew the Bullets ten to five. The defeat broke Gettysburg's winning streak which had feasted eight straight. Ten victories were amassed by the Marimans this season and only three decisions were lost, all by close margins.

Somewhat Sluggish Of the nine regulars participating in the game, eight were playing their final game, Bob Pitzer alone being back for next year. The Maroons were somewhat sluggish in their playing, seemingly the result of their Washington trip.

While nipped for ten safeties, Pitzer hurled good ball and managed to escape but for some damaging support. Brown, Reading hurler, was placed in several holes by errors, but managed to pull through.

Gettysburg tallied in the first. Reindollar was safe when Homan booted his roller, W. Brown then hurled Kitzmiller's boulder into center-field trying to flag Reindollar at second, Reindollar streaking to third. On the play at third, Kitzmiller tried to sneak to second but was pinched, G. Brown to Tomczyk. Hartman fanned, Musselman then rammed a steaming triple to left, scoring Reindollar. Wermick was hit by a pitched ball but was caught stealing, Mancuso to Tomczyk.

Solid singles by Welder, G. Brown and Hannahoe tied up the game in Reading's half of the first, Pitzer fanning Tomczyk with men on second and third.

Second Run In 6th Gettysburg scored its final run in the sixth. Musselman walked, took second on Kitzmiller's sacrifice, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on Alwine's single.

Three singles and an error gave Reading the game in the eighth. Flynn batted Flannery's grounder, G. Brown forced Flannery, Kitzmiller to Musselman. Hannahoe singled, Brown reaching third and Hannahoe second on the play at third. Tomczyk won the game with a belt to center for the runs.

STATE DEMOCRATS

(Continued from First Page) away from the meeting. Some other members of the committee, in the past affiliated with the dry wing, explained "there is no use making a fight when they have the votes to put the plank across."

A proxy to the meeting, Charles Alvin Jones, a Pittsburgh lawyer, was named by Collins as chairman of the platform committee. Other members were Mrs. Nellie S. Burschel, Dunmore; Bernard J. Clark, Altoona; James S. Magee, New Bloomfield; Roy P. Funkhouser, Gettysburg; James Haddon, Oil City, and Catherine A. Gates, South Fork. After its perfunctory session in perusing the previously prepared platform, only one of its members, Clark, spoke in its favor. Asserting "the prohibition law is filling almshouses, insane asylums and cemeteries," he contrasted conditions with when he was Altoona police chief twenty years ago and said not as many boys and girls drank then.

Elect Officers The re-elected officers are: Chairman, John R. Collins, Conduersport; vice chairman, Mrs. Kathryn S. Flohr, Allentown, a legislative candidate in Lehigh county, and treasurer, Meredith M. Myers, Lewistown publisher. Collins is expected to reappoint Edward B. Zimmerman, Philadelphia, as secretary, and Warren Van Dyke, Harrisburg, as publicity director.

Grundy Spent $382,250 Is His Report To State

Harrisburg, June 5 (AP).—Senator Joseph Grundy's statement of the expenses of his losing campaign for United States senator to the state elections board showed an expenditure of $382,250, it was made known today.

Senator Grundy reported no receipts. All expenditures, which were somewhat in excess of his testimony earlier in the week to the senate campaign investigating committee, went to his state campaign committee.

OPEN FOREST RESEARCH BODY

Mont Alto Scene Of Unusual Institute On Forestry.

The exercises in connection with the opening of the Pennsylvania Forest Research institute located at Mont Alto, Franklin county, today, was attended by over 300 people. Secretary Charles E. Dorworth, of the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, presided.

The invocation was delivered by Dr. John Allan Blair, pastor of the Falling Springs Presbyterian church, Chambersburg, and the music was furnished by the Pennsylvania State Forest school orchestra.

Among the speakers was Dr. Earle H. Clapp, assistant forester, United States Forest service, and one of the outstanding authorities on forest research in America. He is the author of the publication "The National Forest Research Program," as well as numerous other books and bulletins. He spoke upon the activities of the Federal Forest Research bureau and the important part research plays in the development of a well organized and progressive forestry program.

Illik Speaks

Dr. Joseph S. Illik, state forester of Pennsylvania, in his address, stated that the Mont Alto state forest is one of the oldest and best developed state forests in America. With the development of the newly created Pennsylvania Forest Research institute, the Mont Alto forest will become a forestry center of commanding influence. In time this new institute, which is the first of its kind maintained by a state in America, will win a place with such historic institutions as Eberswalde in Germany, Nancy in France, Mariabrunn in Austria and Dehra Dun in India.

"The Pennsylvania Forest Research institute is a sound business investment that will pay increasing dividends in service to the people of Pennsylvania. Today Pennsylvania stands on the threshold of a new era in forestry," he added.

Luncheon Served

A buffet luncheon was served on the campus at noon, and in the afternoon a tour was made of the plantations and other study plots which have been developed on the Mischau and Mont Alto state forests.

Willis M. Baker, director of the institute, had charge of the program.

Among those in attendance were: State Forester C. P. Wilber, of New Jersey; State Forester F. W. Besley, of Maryland; State Forester W. G. Howard, of New York; State Forester Edmund Secret, of Ohio; Chief Forester H. S. Newins, of West Virginia; State Forester W. S. Taber, of Delaware; J. H. McFarland, of Harrisburg; H. A. Reynolds, of the Massachusetts Conservation Department; Prof. Ralph Hosmer, of Cornell university; Russell T. Edwards, E. N. Munns, W. R. Hine, O. M. Butler, of Washington; Edgar P. Kable, of the York Water company, York; A. J. Musser, of the Clearfield Bituminous Coal company, Indiana; Hon. Robert S. Conklin, former secretary of the department, Columbia; Prof. D. S. Hartline, of Bloomsburg State Teachers' college; R. D. Forbes, director of the Allegheny Forest Experiment station, Philadelphia; L. I. Bishop, forest supervisor, Allegheny National forest, Warren; Prof. W. B. Evans, county superintendent of Columbia county schools; Prof. J. H. Kunkle, county superintendent of Monroe county schools; Dr. John Hollinger, Carnegie museum, Pittsburgh, and George R. Taylor, Scranton Gas and Water company, Scranton.

HORSE FALLS INTO CISTERN; IS KILLED

Waynesboro.—A horse owned by Dr. J. H. Wishard, Leitersburg, and being used for the summer by Leonard Werking, fell into an empty cistern on the property of David Harbaugh Monday.

With the assistance of several men Mr. Werking was able to get the horse out, but it died shortly afterwards from a broken neck.

The horse was old, but was still considered a good worker in the plow.

ARREST WOMAN ON LIQUOR COMPLAINT

York.—The home of Minnie Hartman, this place, was raided Tuesday night at 10:30 o'clock by a squad of York police and a constable. Fourteen bottles of home brew and a five gallon wooden keg partly filled with liquor were confiscated.

The search warrant was issued from the office of Mayor Jacob E. Weaver. The officers who conducted the raid were W. H. Switzer, C. F. Christine, W. C. Gotwalt, C. H. Wilt, John E. Hess, A. L. Elsenhart and Constable Deiminger.

The woman is charged with disorderly conduct and maintaining a nuisance. She was released after Charles W. Hall, 138 East Princess street, posted a bond of $100 for her appearance in police court Wednesday.

TWO MEN FINED FOR USING GIGS

Frederick.—Pleading guilty to the use of gigs in the Monocacy river, near LeGore bridge, three men, M. E. Forney, Westminster, and William Weddle and W. F. McLain, New Midway, were fined $25 each in a trial Monday night before Justice Harry Doreus, of Woodsboro. The men were arrested Saturday night by Game Warden Ben F. Phebus, assisted by Deputies Wachter and Marsden, while they were taking fish from the river.

SAVE SILO IN BLAZE ON FREDERICK FARM

Frederick.—Efforts of the Middletown Fire company, assisted by the Independent Hose company, of Frederick, saved the large bank barn and silo of M. Frank Holter, president of the Frederick County Farm Bureau, from destruction in a blaze which destroyed his dairy house Tuesday morning. The loss, including valuable new equipment, was put in the neighborhood of $1,000, partly covered by insurance.

With water from only two low-running springs on the farm soon consumed, the firemen unloosed a stream of chemicals which smothered the flames as they leaped from barn adjoining, and at one time the dairy house towards the large ignited the scaffolding beside the silo.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN UNDERGO OPERATIONS

York.—Crowding the corridors of the York hospital and presenting many pitiful sights, over 250 crippled children of this city and county were given examinations by Dr. J. T. Rugh, eminent surgeon, at the crippled children's clinic Tuesday. The clinic, hospitals attaches reported, was the largest in point of attendance by patients yet conducted.

Patients whose physical defects can be remedied by operations were detained at the hospital and were provided with beds until Wednesday, when Doctor Rugh performed the surgical work. Patients who are not in a condition to be removed to their home immediately, will be kept at the hospital until they have improved.

CHAMBERSBURG COUNCIL TO RUN PLAYGROUNDS

Chambersburg.—Town council branched out Tuesday night and by adoption of an ordinance assumed the administration of local playgrounds by appointment of a recreation commission.

This action was taken not because the solons did not have faith and confidence in the present agencies governing playgrounds, but because it seemed to meet the sentiment in council for a local director of playgrounds and also would give council a direct hand in supervising the expenditure of a councilmanic appropriation. Council appropriated $1,000 for the work, $600 of which is to be used for salaries of individual playground supervisors. The remainder is to be used in paying the salary of a three-months director of playgrounds to be secured locally, if possible.

Murder at High Tide

By CHARLES G. BOOTH

SYNOPSIS: Foul play is suspected when Caroline Brent mysteriously disappears from the quiz into Dan Parados' death. A search party goes out. Allan Hunt, in love with Caroline, hears her scream when he enters a room in the Parados home. A man leaps at him and he is knocked unconscious. Waking up, Hunt remembers the man's face. It was le Balafre, one of two French convicts who had come to the island burning with hate for Parados, whom they believed their betrayer of 25 years ago. Hunt has a hunch they have taken Caroline to an old fishing village at one end of the island. Telling a maid to notify others of the searching party, he races there, only to find no trace of anyone.

Chapter 35

THREE MEN OF BABYLON
I shook myself. That wouldn't do. I had not given the place a chance. If the cove had been the destination of the convicts their launch was out there somewhere.

The wharf attracted me. I started along it, cautiously picking my way over the rotten planking. I moved with absolute quietness. The wharf was some 25 feet wide and perhaps 200 feet long. Several dilapidated sheds occupied the lower end of it.

Suddenly I stopped. I had to stop. The wharf was broken in two. Where I now stood, some hundred feet from the beach, the piling had collapsed. A gap perhaps ten feet wide separated the two sections. It was impossible to get across the gap, except by swimming or boat. The lower half, where the sheds stood, formed a little island—a little fortress.

Just then I saw a light. A mere thread of a light it was. In a twinkling it had gone. I breathed deeply, gratefully. They were there and Caroline was with them. Not a shadow of a doubt lingered in my mind. How was I to get her away from them?

As my eyes drilled into the darkness something heaved itself up, stood erect and became the figure of a man. I dropped, my heart in my throat.

I supposed he was either le Balafre or Bec; then I heard the faint dripping of his garments as he wrung them and I knew better. He would be Flique or Samuels—the former, I hoped. A breaker sloshed around the piling just then and he did not hear my low whistle. By the time the water had subsided, he had moved down the wharf and passed from sight.

Slipping out of my shoes and overcoat, I let myself down over the edge of the wharf, which was some four feet above the water. Then I hooked my right arm around one of the piles and slid cautiously down it. I clung to a pile for an instant. The tide was ebbing fast.

Letting go, I was swept along 25 feet or so, when I anchored myself to another pile—the one up which the man had climbed, I thought, as several cross pieces were nailed upon it, forming a ladder. My hand was upon one of these cross pieces when I heard a voice. What it said I could not make out, but a penetrating metallic quality in its tone recalled to my mind the livid face of le Balafre.

The voice was blown toward me through the piling from a point somewhere under the wharf and I listened. The gurgle of the water was all I heard, but I did see something. A barricade of planking was erected against two of the center piles in a cross-wise direction. I thought the planking made a right angle turn and ran lengthwise with the wharf.

I knew in a flash what it was. The convicts had built an oblong enclosure large enough to give their launch secret harborage, or they had found some sort of an enclosure there and adapted it to their needs. The latter, probably.

A carelessly erected barricade of rotting planking beneath a ruined wharf would not be apt to attract the attention of anyone putting casually into the cove. It was not unlikely, indeed, that they had broken the gap in the wharf to isolate themselves more effectively.

A trap would connect the enclosure with one of the sheds on the wharf, I supposed, and it occurred to me that I could not do better than make use of it. Flique—or Samuels—would have his hands full, as I doubted if either le Balafre or Bec would be taken alive.

Striking out for the barricade, I found finger and toe hold in the planking—as I had surmised, it had been thrown together with deliberate carelessness—and hoisted myself to the top, which was some two feet below the wharf.

Inside the enclosure the launch I had expected to find, a powerful speedy-looking craft, swung at its moorings. A rectangle of light descended from a trap in the floor of the shed into the cockpit of the launch, which was empty. The light had made it possible to see the barricade. Iron bars driven into one of the piles gave access to the shed above.

(I learned afterwards that the Portuguese villagers had constructed this subterranean approach to the wharf to facilitate their casual smuggling operations.)

As I dropped into the enclosure and clung to the side of the launch, brought me to the pile with the iron bars. Parados . . . not Lacote!

"I shall break it if mademoiselle will not tell us!"

"Oh, no, no, no!"

"Ciceron, you will take that other arm."

"Do I not have it, mon ami?" A different voice, this one, but of the same wicked pitch. "Come, ma petite. It will be disagreeable, those broken arms."

"Mademoiselle!"

"I cannot! Oh, Allan, some one!"

"A little more, my Ciceron, and she will open the heart. Come, mademoiselle. . . ."

I was not quite mad enough to be blind to the folly of what I was doing. As soon as my head appeared above the trap I'd get a bullet between my eyes. But I couldn't help it. A man can stand only so much of some things.

As the top of my head reached the trap, the cross bar upon which my feet were set broke from the pile and I went down. My head struck the side of the launch and if I had not flung out my arm and clutched at the edge of the launch I should have gone down. I had come up on the other side of the craft. I began to haul myself aboard.

I had one leg over the side when I noticed that the shed had become silent. Perhaps Caroline had fainted. I prayed that she had.

Something had happened. A vital matter to Messieurs le Balafre and Bec, I thought. The silence pinned me to the floor of the launch. A whisper floated down.

"Ciceron . . . ca fenetre la!"

The window! Some one was there. The man I had seen, of course. I had forgotten him, but I had sense enough not to move.

"Non, non!" Ciceron Bec screamed suddenly. "Pas la fenetre la porte."

A door was opening! That would be Flique. It ought to be Flique. He would glory in this ironic finish.

... A pistol cracked.

"Ah . . . mon dieu!" The cry was strangled. "Mon Ciceron . . . Lacote"

—Jules Lacote. . . ."

"Lacote," he had said. Lacote! Had I gone entirely mad? I was leaping to my feet when the falling body of a man struck my chest, almost pitching me overboard, and dropped in a puddle at my feet. It was le Balafre. A pistol was in his hand. He would not need it any more, I reflected, as I wrenched it out of his grasp.

The other pistol barked again and Ciceron Bec dropped as I stuck my head through the trap and saw him for the first time—in the moment of his death. My eyes flew the floor against the north wall of to Caroline, who was crouched on the shed. I went numb with horror.

A lantern swung from a nail, smoking a little. The oscillation of the lantern and its uneven yellow flame caused the agony in Caroline's face to beat like a pulse. She did not see me. Her head was turned away.

Just Folks

MISTRESS AND SERVANT

They're very rich, so I am told,
And being poisoned by their gold;
In anger often they condemn
The timid girl who works for them.
She waits up on them, day by day,
And hears whatever they may say,
But while she serves them food and drinks
She makes no sign of what she thinks.
They've trained her well to mind
her place
And keep an unresponsive face;
For anything she sees or hears
There must be neither smiles nor tears.
No thought from them she's ever had
Save is the service good or bad..

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEWS ADAMS

DISAPPOINTED PEOPLE

I GET so many letters from disappointed people. Some of them are extremely pathetic. I wish that I might give something to such people that would help make them happy.

But the face is that it is a human characteristic for all of us to be disappointed in greater or less degree.

With all the glory that came to Napoleon, he died a disappointed man—bitterly complaining of his fate.

The child seems to be as happy on the dark day as on the bright day. But there comes a time when disappointment quiets the laughter and loneliness shades the heart.

Disappointment is a common heritage, however. We dream dreams and then awake to find that realities have swept them from before our eyes. We set up ideals and strive to attain them and so often walk to our bed for the night with a heavy heart.

But this very disappointment is a vital affair in the business of life.
We were not put here to live in clover and drink nectar from the hand of some goddess. We were put into the world to play the game, to take our chance "at bat" whether for a "strike out" or a "home run." And sometimes we are called upon to "sacrifice" that someone else may come infor the good of all.

There are compensations. If this were not so every brick and stone in the citadel of our hope in life would crumble.

Without complaint, advertisement, or visible expression we should carry over our heart the "red badge of courage."

It was Shelley who once wrote:

"Our sincerest laughter
With some pain is fraught."

Being a servant, she's compelled Beneath their notice to be held.

They think her common, but I fear They'd startled be if they could hear

The girl they scornfully condemn
With equal scorn discussing them.
They'd be surprised to know that she Above them holds herself to be,

And thinks her manners better far
Than those of her employers are.

BUSINESS today requires that the successful man be physically fit and mentally alert.
Men, especially, forget themselves physically.
Their work demands practically all their time.
They do not exercise enough. They get little or no sunshine. They are robbed of a good appetite... and when their red-blood-cells fall below normal their flesh becomes flabby, their nerves unsteady. Their strength must be reinforced.

Soundness of body and peace of mind depend upon the proper number of red-cells in the blood—5,000,000 to the cubic millimeter. They give blood its color and are carriers of nourishment to every part of the body. It is dangerous to let the red-cell count remain below normal.
S.S.S. has been a blessing to millions who have taken advantage of its wonderful medicinal properties. It helps Nature build rich, red-blood-cells. It promotes healthy body building.
You will be pleased to know that S.S.S. is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs. It is easily assimilated. Pleasant to take.

Little Jack Rabbit

By David Cory

Now, what did the Big Brown Bear do after he had placed his old walking stick behind the closet door in the little bungalow kitchen amid the bramble bushes, as I mentioned in the story before this? Well, after handing Uncle John Hare a big, fat cabbage leaf clear, he asked Lady Love's permission to smoke, and then lighted another. Having blown a couple of smoke rings into the air, he began to tell the news. "Woody Woodchuck yesterday paid me a visit. Woody's a great old digger. Mother Nature has given him stout claws for that purpose."

"He's a good friend of mine," cried the little rabbit. "Many of his abandoned holes have saved me from Danny Fox. Lots of times I've hidden in them when that old fox was pressing me hard."

"Ha, ha!" chuckled the Old Bear at a sudden thought that came into his big head, "only yesterday Woody was forced to climb a tree to escape Danny Fox."

"What, can a woodchuck climb trees?" exclaimed the little bunny.

"Only low trees," explained the Big Brown Bear. "Danny Fox was so close to his heels that he had no time to reach his front door, so he had to run right up a tree. Luckily he managed to cling to the rough bark with his sharp claws." "Bully for him," chuckled Uncle John Hare. "I have to dodge around them. But I've good, strong and long hind legs. And I can beat Danny Fox at dodging."

"Woody Woodchuck belongs to the Squirrel family," observed daintily Lady Love. "I remember learning that at school. He looks something like a squirrel, only he is much larger and has a stouter body. Squirrel Nutcracker's coat is gray while Woody's is brownish-yellow."

His feet are very dark brown, almost black, and his whiskers gray."

"Hurray for mother," shouted the admiring little bunny. "She knows more than you, Mr. Big Brown Bear."

"She certainly knows how to bake cake," grinned the old Bear, with a wink at Uncle John Hare. Then, of course, generous little Lady Love got out the angel cake and the lettuce leaf marmalade.

"My, that cake is good," exclaimed the old bear. "I didn't intend that you should see me wink, but I'm glad you did." Presently he rose to his hind legs and reached for his fur cap on the wooden peg. "Come to see me to-morrow," he said, turning to the little rabbit, who had politely handed him his walking stick. "I have some lollypops left over from last season. I can spare a few if you'll promise to bring one home to mother. I always remembered my mother when a boy. Never forget your mother."

"Mother is your dearest friend. Loving to the journey's end. She will always see you through. When your friends have jilted you."

Godnight," and the old bear ambled across the meadow and into the wildwood, where the lollypop tree blossomed beside his cosy cave.

Stops Philadelphia From Okaying Ballots

Philadelphia, June 5 (AP)—Judge McDevitt said today he had signed an order restraining the county commissioners from certifying the primary vote in this city until after the count is completed. Judge McDevitt had previously indicated his intention of taking the step when county commissioners expressed the intention of certifying the vote for state Republican committeemen in time to enable the Philadelphia members to vote when the state committee convenes here Saturday.

BALTIMORE HOT PLACE

Baltimore, June 5 (AP)—One of the hottest cities in the country yesterday, Baltimore blistered again today under rising temperature. As the thermometer registered 95 yesterday, one death was recorded. The official mark at Hagerstown was 99, the highest there in five years.

Hoover To Study
Tariff Measure

Washington, June 5 (AP).—President Hoover was said at the White House to be holding an open mind on the question of signing the new tariff bill.

With aid from experts, the president expects to study the rates provided and the administrative provisions closely. He will send the measure through the regular routine of investigation by the various departments concerned and in addition planned a minute examination himself that may require considerable time.

Reports that the adjusting of the flexible provision to more nearly conform with the president's views and the elimination of the de-benture clause made signing sure were said at the White House to be without foundation.

MR. WM. BENTON

"It certainly is a relief to be able to eat without misery," said Mr. William Benton, 375 Bedford street, Johnstown. "For the past three months I suffered from an acid stomach. I had belching spells and bloating after each meal. Pains, heartburn and indigestion were common. I was rundown in general and had little energy or vigor."

"It was a happy day when I started taking Konjola. It went right to work and the first bottle made an improvement. As I continued the treatment, my digestion grew better and better. RESOLUTIONS

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God in His divine wisdom to summon from our midst our faithful friend and co-worker, Mrs. Sallie Bucher, be it

Resolved, That we have lost one of the most consecrated members of our Sabbath School, one whose life was devoted to the church where her sincere and loving Christian service will remain an inspiration to all who know her, and be it

Resolved, That though we deeply feel our great loss, yet, we humbly submit to the will of Him, "Who doeth all things well," realizing that our loss is her eternal gain, and be it

Resolved, That we extend to her husband in his bereavement our heartfelt sympathy and we pray that God will comfort him in his hour of sorrow, and be it

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to her husband and be published in the town papers.

Signed,
MRS. GEORGE H. RIEGLE,
MRS. WILLIAM ALLISON,
Excelsior Bible Class,
Floh's Sabbath School.

RESOLUTIONS

On the death of Mrs. Gilbert Bucher, of the Woman's Missionary society of Flohr's Lutheran church.

Whereas, It has pleased our Heavenly Father in His divine providence to remove our dear sister from our midst, we bow ourselves in humble submission to His holy will.

And therefore, Be it resolved by her death we have lost a true and loyal member who was always a cheerful and willing worker, a pleasant friend and one whose presence will be missed.

Resolved, That we extend to the husband and bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy, and that these resolutions be copied in our minutes and a copy be sent to the bereaved family, in this, their great sorrow.

Signed by the secretary,
MRS. CLARENCE DEARDORFF.

Cantlon To Race At Altoona, June 14

Altoona, June 5.—"Shorty" Cantlon, second place winner at Indianapolis and holder of the world's speed record for four cylinder racing cars, signed an entry Tuesday for Altoona's annual 200 mile Flag Day speed classic June 14.

Cantlon, who drove here last September as mate of Billy Arnold, this year's Hoosier king, will drive the same car in which he established a world's record last winter. He drove the four cylinder mount over the mile Murdock dry lake bed course at Lancaster, California, for a new mark of 144.985 miles an hour. The record was formerly held by Bob Berman who shot over the sands of Daytona Beach in 1911 at a speed of 141.1738 miles an hour.

The Business and Industrial Girls' club of New Oxford will have a Hobo Hike on Monday evening. The club will meet at the home of Ethel Stock and will be led on the secret trail of the hike by Laura Sterner.

MILL WORKER BENEFITED

Picked Up After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Towanda, Pa.—"I was working in a silk mill and got so tired and rundown that I weighed only 89 pounds. I was not well enough to do my work. As soon as I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to pick up. After being married for thirteen years, I had a baby boy and the next year I had another boy who now weighs 37 pounds and is healthy as a bear. The Vegetable Compound has helped me in a dozen ways and I hope others will try it too."
—Mrs. C. B. Johnson, Webb Street, R. D. #6, Towanda, Pennsylvania.

Modern Method Lift Them Out CORNS

Callouses Go Too
The safest and real modern way to remove corns, root and all—out to stay is soak them every night for 3 or 4 nights in an invigorating, stimulating Radox Footbath. Then put on modish shoes again, walk and dance with greatest comfort because there's nothing left to ache. No pain, no trouble.
Radox liberates oxygen, which softens hard outer layer of corn, each night penetrating further and further thru the pores, carrying the salts to actual root of corn, so loosening it that it comes right out. Nothing like healthy, free from corn, feet to assure happy days! Get a package of Radox at People's Drug Store or any drugstore.

WITNESS TELLS TRIGGER CHANGE

Bomb Outrage Trial Continues In Court In Maryland.

Rockville, Md., June 5.—Testimony that Leroy Brady changed the trigger on a gun, parts of which the state claims were in the bomb that killed his sister-in-law, Naomi Hall Brady, on New Year's Day marked another step in the prosecution's case in his trial today.

Emmett Brady, brother of the man on trial and of the victim's husband, Herman Brady, was the final witness of the day, from whom this evidence was obtained. The weapon was a fur gun owned by Emmett and he said Leroy had put in a brass trigger, instead of the original steel one, about the middle of November, at the shop where he worked in Washington.

To Prevent Rusting
He explained that the change was to prevent rusting of the steel trigger, the gun being mounted on a swivel, so it will fire automatically at any animal moving the bait with which it is connected. The special prosecutor, J. Wilson Ryan, sought to learn why the change of trigger was necessary when a cover was built to protect the gun, but this question was withdrawn on defense objection.

Emmett's testimony also included identifying a can of blasting powder found in January in a toolhouse on the Brady farm in Mitchellville, while on cross-examination it was brought out that some of the powder had been used for blasting logs about three years ago. He told of a visit to the Mitchellville home of Leroy at 4:20 a. m. on December 29, the day on which the bomb, disguised as a Christmas gift, had been left on the porch of the home of Mrs. Anna Buckley, near that of the Hall family in Seat Pleasant.

Tells of Courtship
John S. Hall, Mrs. Brady's father, testified as to the courtship of Herman Brady and his daughter and his first knowledge that they had been married shortly before Thanksgiving Day last year. Until the Hall family moved to Seat Pleasant, about three months before the explosion, they lived on the farm of Clarence Brady, an uncle of Herman, whose property adjoined that on which Herman's family lived.

PHONE MERGER UP AT CAPITAL

Companies Ask Okay Of Inter-State Body To Exchange.

Washington, June 5 (AP).—Permission to put through a double exchange of telephone property which will eliminate duplicate telephone service now rendered in about ten counties in Pennsylvania was sought from the interstate commerce commission today in a joint petition filed by the Bell Telephone company of Pennsylvania and the Cumberland Valley telephone company.

By the arrangement proposed, the Cumberland Valley will take $1,218,000 worth of the Bell exchange and communication system, and combining it with property which the Cumberland Valley already owns, will render service exclusively in York, Franklin, Fulton, Adams and part of Cumberland county.

The Bell in turn will take $795,000 worth of Cumberland Valley equipment located outside of this area, and will provide exclusive service in the territory affected.
